GOTHAM'S OLIVER TWIST

A DAYLIGHT OUTRAGE IN NEW YORK

An Old Man, Deluded Into Helping a Boy Find a Lost Nickel, Is Set Upon and Terribly Beaten—Escape of the Robbers.

New York, Jan. 11.—A small boy, about fifteen years of age, entered Daniel Bing's cigar store at No. 61 West Forty-second street, and asked for a five cent cigar. The clerk, M. W. Loeb, an old man fifty-one years old was at his lunch in the rear of the store at the time. He gave the boy a cigar, which was paid for with a fifty cent piece. The lad started for the door when he apparently dropped something on the floor, and when Mr. Loeb peered over the counter the boy was no longer looking for the lost article. After waiting five or ten minutes Mr. Loeb abandoned his lunch and went to the front of the counter to assist the boy in his search.

The old man adjusted his glasses, and assuming a stooping position looked carefully over the floor, his back being toward the door. At this moment two rough looking men, who had been watching from the outside, quietly opened the door and stealthily entered the store. Old Mr. Loeb feeling the cold draft, partially raised himself, when he was felled by a heavy blow on the head. He cried out for help, and with the blood streaming over his face, arose to his feet. The ruffian, who was armed with a short piece of leaden pipe, again struck the old man down. The blow powerful as it was, did not render the old man senseless, and regaining his feet, he struggled with the ruffian.

His shouts apparently frightened the ruffians, for they hurriedly left the store without securing the money till which was evidently their design. Meantime a crowd and several men gave chase to the fleeing thieves. The boy disappeared as soon as the struggle began. He was apparently the Oliver Twist in the affray.

The men succeeded in eluding their pursuers. On the corner a crowd was gathered at the Temple Emanuel, where Dr. Lasker's funeral was in progress. The robbers ran into the crowd after looking around to see if they were followed, and they were lost sight of. The cigar store is situated in the most prominent portion of Forty-second street. It is the third door east of Sixth avenue, and is almost at the foot of the stairs of the Elevated Railroad Station. There was the usual number of citizens on the street at the time of the outrage, and passengers up and down the Elevated Railroad stairs could obtain a view of the interior of the store.

A physician who was descending the stairs as the ruffians burst through the doorway, saw the old man stagger to the street and sink down in a pool of blood. He assisted to carry him to the store and washed the blood from his wounds. He had one horrible gash extending from the right eye to the center of the skull, and there were several other wounds upon his head. The leaden pipe which the burglars left behind them was about a foot long, and was bent in a half circle, as though caused by striking Mr. Loeb's head.

The police of the Nineteenth Precinct had been advised of the outrage, and a telegraphic report was sent to headquarters from the station in Fifty-first street. It found Inspector Byrnes there, and he sent two of his detectives to look into the matter. They obtained from the cabman a partial description of the robber who escaped on Fifth avenue, but it is not probable that he can be identified if arrested. He was about twenty-five years old, smooth face, and wore a long dark overcoat and a Derby hat. An alarm, giving the cabman's description of the fugitive, was sent from headquarters to all precincts, with orders to arrest him if found.

SWINDLING UNCLE SAM.

Houses of "Great Respectability" Engaged in Cheating the Government.
New York, Jan. 11.—The Washington correspondent of the Sun has gone into the details of the recently discovered frauds upon the revenue by undervaluations and other practices, and presents a startling array of firms engaged in the scheme. The discovery of the frauds will undoubtedly lead to new legislation, as well as prosecutions and civil suits against some of the leading importers of New York, Boston and Philadelphia. The legislation introduced in Congress by Mr. Converse calls for all the information which the Secretary of the Treasury has respecting these frauds so far as they relate to the imports of wools and woolen yarns, but the information of the Secretary shows that the frauds are by no means confined to the importation of wool. In the matter of silk, the United States Consul at Gorgon, Switzerland, reports that on thirty-nine invoices of silk shipped from that place to New York, between September 1 and November 1, 1883, the advances made by the appraisers amounted to nearly $5,000. These silks were shipped to the following New York firms: Luckenmeyer & Schaefer, Stapfer & Struel, Reimann & Co., Victor & Achelis, C. A. Aufmordt & Co., Iselin, Neuser & Co., Oberbauer, Abegg & Daniker, H. Oberbauer's Sons, Werner, Heschner & Co., and Ed. Warburg & Co.

The Consul at Basel, who had already made reports of undervaluations in aniline dyes, states that the aggregate undervaluations of these consigned colors will reach an enormous figure. In some cases the difference between the prices stated in consigned invoices and prices received from actual sales is sixty-eight per cent. These goods were consigned to A. Klopstein of New York.

The Consul at Basel reports great undervaluations of velvets and short plush ribbons. One of the most successful ricks of dishonest importers, he reports it is the invoicing of a small quantity of correctly valued goods in a large shipment of undervalued ones. He reports fifteen invoices of ribbons shipped to C. A. Aufmordt & Co. of New York, amounting to $30,000, which were fraudulent, being invoiced at 65 centimes per line, and the market value being not less than 90. This same Consul also reports that velvets manufactured at Crefeld, in Germany, are shipped in large quantities to the United States, and greatly undervalued by systematic frauds. Each of the principal velvet manufacturers there has a consignor in the United States, to whom the independent purchasers from this country are referred, and told that they can purchase their goods in dollars and cents, payable in New York or Boston. In this way the goods are imported into those two cities at values unknown to the actual purchasers. The result has been that these manufacturers have been able to import for years immense quantities without revealing to the Custom House authorities the market value.

The Consul at Bradford reports an invoice of 25,000 incandescent lamps shipped to the Swan Incandescent Electric Light Company, of Boston, invoiced at one shilling each, when the price in Bradford was six shillings.

Special Agent Brackett, of New York, reports undervaluation of aniline dyes, imported by Heller & Merz, of New York, and that the United States District Attorney has decided to bring suit for $35,000 for the value of the merchandise imported, with the duties added. The same firm has previously paid $10,000 penalties for fraudulent invoices on aniline dyes.

Special Agent Martin reports that five-sixths of all the goods imported are consigned, nearly all of which are deliberately undervalued from 15 to 40 per cent. The special agent in Europe submits a list of sixty-one invoices of embroideries shipped from St. Gall, consigned to houses in New York and Philadelphia, whose undervaluation was about $70,000, or about 22 per cent. These invoices were consigned to the following houses in New York: L. Friedberger, Hauger & Weldberger, Erlanger, Bonheim & Co., Guggenheim's Sons, Billinder Bros., Ridgely & Co., Musser Bros., A. Raffan & Co., Einstein, Hirsh & Co., Lawson Bros., Leon Levy, Pollak & Guggenheim, Block & Berthe, Newberger & Co., Obendorf & Heidelberg, C. T. Stroup, Sable & Lessen; and the following in Philadelphia: Schoenfeldt and M. D. Pulaski & Co. In addition to these there are a large number of other cases, all of which will be brought to the attention of Congress.

FUNERAL OF THE CONVENT VICTIMS.

A Collection of CHURCH BONES Placed in One Common Grave.

BELLEVILLE, Ill., Jan. 11.—The funeral of the identified bodies of the victims of the convent fire, who were residents of Belleville, took place yesterday. The services were held in St. Peter's Church, which was heavily draped with mourning and filled with a very large crowd of sympathizing, sorrowing people. A solemn requiem mass was sung, Bishop Baltes, of Alton, officiating, assisted by Rev. Father Abbehn, of Milwaukee, the spiritual director of the order of Notre Dame. A large number of priests of the diocese were also present. Two funeral orations, one in English and one in German, were delivered, after which a procession consisting of the boys and girls of the Parochial schools, the surviving sisters, the clergymen, the Mayor and the City Council of Belleville, and a very large number of citizens and strangers proceeded to Green Mount Cemetery, where the interment took place, and the last sad rites were performed. Business was entirely suspended in the city, and nearly everybody took part in the sad ceremonies. The bodies of Mother Superior Jerome, Sisters Moderato, Agnelia, and Edwina, and Katie Urban, of Vandalla, Ill., were buried side by side in caskets. There was a box covered with a pall, which held the ashes of the unfortunate pupils. Minnie Bailey, Emma Stark, Agnes Scaling, Minnie Scaling, Dinah Horn, Lottie Pierson, Delphia S. Hernandez, and Josie Handler. A monument is to be erected upon the spot, inscribed with the names of the dead and a brief history of their martyrdom.

A MYSTERY CLEARING.

The Body of the Murdered Girl Identified and Her Alleged Slayer Arrested.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The name of the man arrested at Flat Bush, L. I., as being the murderer of the young woman found dead in the creek near Elmira last Sunday, is Wm. Menken. Inspector Byrnes in giving an account of Menken's arrest, said that another full description had been received from the Elmira police of the man last seen with the dead girl. Detective Adams, of the central police, remembered that he arrested a man some years ago, answering the prisoner's description, for committing a robbery at Gunther's Pavilion in the Bowery. The man was sent to the Elmira reformatory, from which he was discharged in June, 1883. Inspector Byrnes received a full description of the jewelry worn by the dead woman, when last seen alive. In the meantime, Detective Adams remembered that the man arrested for the Gunther robbery had relatives at Flat Bush. Last night detectives went to Flushing, and early to-day arrested Menken. He denied having been at Elmira for months, but the dead girl's jewelry being found in his possession was strong evidence of his guilt. The prisoner, since his arrest, has been very reticent and refuses to give any account of his doings for the past two weeks. Chief of Police Little will arrive here in the morning and convey the accused back to Elmira.

The name of the murdered girl is Katie Bradchoff, a servant in the family of Mrs. Lizen, of Eighty-ninth street. The girl had saved some money, and Menken was a constant visitor. Two days before New Year's the girl and Menken left to get married, as was supposed. Mrs. Lizen last night identified the jewelry as that worn by Katie Bradchoff.

Mr. Bushyhead, as his first name—Dennis—would indicate, is of Irish extraction, although born and raised among the red men. His mother was a squaw and his father a pale face. He is said to be a shrewd politician and well acquainted with the diplomatic arts of the pale face.

A MIDNIGHT STRUGGLE FOR LIFE.

Wounded and Bleeding, a Prisoner is Finally Overpowered and Lynched.

STAUNTON, Va., Jan. 11.—Details of a horrible lynching affair which took place Friday night last at Monterey, in Highland County, have just transpired. Owing to the snow on the mountains, particulars did not arrive until now. E. D. Atchison was confined in jail for stabbing Sidney Buckman, a prominent Readjuster, on Christmas day, while drinking together. Atchison was a Vermont, and a desperate character. He was arrested against the protest of Buckman, who is recovering. Atchison was heard to make some threats that when he got out of jail he would kill some of the men who procured his arrest. Friday night ten rough fellows, with masks on, came to the jail about midnight, and demanded the key of J. Hiner, the jailor in charge. He said they were not in his possession. The mob then commenced to batter down the door, meanwhile shooting with pistols and guns through the doors and windows. Atchison fought furiously inside for his life, though shot three or four times. The desperadoes were two hours in forcing their way into the cell of the doomed man. Atchison was finally secured, and bleeding from four wounds, almost dead, and unable to walk, he was tied and dragged away, about 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning. The lynchers told the guard that he would find their prisoner on a certain tree about a half mile from town. After daylight he followed the track where the unfortunate man had been dragged through the snow, and found him hanging under the tree indicated. Buckman is the Superintendent of Schools of Highland County, whose appointment the State Senate last week refused to confirm.

Horrible Death.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 11.—While Henry Brookharder, fifty-eight, was walking along the Southern railroad track in front of the depot, on McLean avenue, a detached freight car came flying down the track, striking him and knocking him under the wheels. When taken out his skull was found to be smashed into pieces and his body more or less mangled. His family, who had been notified, awaited his body with frantic grief. He is a German, and leaves a wife and seven children, aged from six to twenty years. He was a laborer, and had been cutting ice in the vicinity of the accident, and when killed was walking away from his work on his way to dinner.

CONGRESSIONAL SUMMARY.

Senate.

Mr. Frye said he was glad to have an expression of Senators on the other side in regard to free trade. That was a matter on which the country anxiously awaited information.

Mr. Morgan denied that there was a leading Democrat in either House who had stated that he was a free trader under our constitution and laws, as the Senator from Maine wished to impute. The Democrats were in favor of the reduction of the tariff so as to reduce the redundant revenue raised by harsh exactions and unjust discriminations, for which the Republican party was responsible.

After further debate the amendment of Mr. Vest, striking out the proposed new committee, was carried by thirty-six yeas, eleven nays.

House.

Mr. Springer (Ill.), from the Committee on expenditures in the Department of Justice, reported back a resolution calling on the Attorney General for a detailed statement of expenses incurred in the prosecution of the so-called Star Route cases, with a recommendation that it be not adopted, as the information had been furnished to the Senate, and submitted a substitute empowering the Committee to send for persons and papers and employ a stenographer. Mr. Reed (Me.) made a point of order, which was sustained, that the substitute was not germane to the original resolution. Mr. Springer withdrew the report, and offered the resolution as an original proposition. Mr. Reed objected to its consideration, and it was withdrawn, with a remark from Mr. Springer that he could expect no assistance from that side.

Mr. King (La.) introduced a joint resolution appropriating $1,000,000 for the preservation, repair and construction of certain works for improvement of the Mississippi River. Referred to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

At 1:30 P. M. the House adjourned until Monday next.

NORTHWESTERN LEAGUE.

Toledo Refused the Championship Pennant.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 11.—The Northwestern Base Ball League concluded its session yesterday at the Tremont House, Elias Matter, of Grand Rapids, Mich., being elected President, Samuel Norton, Chicago, Secretary. The question of awarding the championship pennant for 1883 was decided in favor of the Saginaw club, as the Toledo club, although winning a majority during the season, has withdrawn from the Northwestern League and joined the American Association. The petition of Evansville, Ind., for admission to the league was denied by reason of its geographical location. It was, however, decided to admit all the other cities that were candidates, viz: Grand Rapids, Milwaukee, Muskegon, Peoria, Quincy, Saginaw, Stillwater, St. Paul, and Terre Haute. John J. Rust, of Saginaw, was the next permanent President, and what is known as the tripartite agreement was signed in conjunction with the National and American Leagues.

A PRO TEM. PRESIDENT WANTED.

Senator Anthony to be Invited to Accept the Honor.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Immediately after the adjournment of the Senate yesterday, a caucus of Republican Senators was held for the purpose of appointing a President pro tem, to succeed Senator Edmunds, who indicated his desire to be relieved. The caucus was well attended but no nomination was agreed upon. There was a general interchange of views in regard to the selection of Senator Anthony, which, without exception, were expressive of the most friendly feeling toward that gentleman. In view of his ill health, however, and in order to ascertain his wishes, it was decided that it would be best to confer with the Senator on the subject before taking action. For this purpose a committee of three was appointed with instructions to report at a future caucus.

Respectable Liabilities.

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—A special to the United Press from San Francisco, says: Great excitement was occasioned late this afternoon by the announcement of the failure of M. Waterman & Co., extensive grain brokers of this city. The liabilities are $1,500,000.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Bradstreet's details of the failure of Messrs. Waterman & Co. show that their liabilities amount to about $1,500,000, with assets which cannot yet be determined. The assignment is to Isaac Wormser. The firm claimed a capital of $500,000. The business of the firm had been established about twenty years, and the firm had been largely engaged in wheat shipping. Their business relations were very close with Physter & Co., of San Jose, Cal.

The Oyster Bay Assault.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Jan. 11.—John Tappan, residing in Poverty Hollow, on the outskirts of the village, and near the house of Simon Rappaport, identified the overalls found in the woods near Townsend's house, and the hammer used by the perpetrator of the outrage as his property.
